

The Master, the Mystic and the Muse

a Presentation by Eric Wheeler

6:00, January 13, 2011

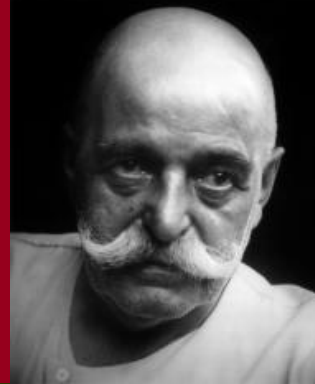

at the Pump House

In the past several years the life and work of Frank Lloyd Wright have become widely discussed in popular culture.

Wright's best known and most "organic" buildings were designed after he met Olgivanna and established the commune-like Taliesin Fellowship in early 1932.

Greek/Armenian philosopher and mystic George I Gurdjieff. How much of Wright's post-Prairie Style architecture was influenced by Gurdjieff's spiritual understandings of the material world through Olgivanna?

For over 30 years, from their first meeting until Wright's death in 1959, Olgivanna Lazovich was FLW's life and business partner and co-director of the Taliesin Fellowship in Spring Green, Wisconsin.

Reception at 5:30, Presentation at 6:00, Discussion to Follow
